

Reward System

Creating a reward system is a great way to make sure both you and your child can have fun while potty training. Every child is different so reward systems that work best are ones that are designed for their personality and learning style.

Turn this card over for ideas.

Reward System

- ★ Make room for your child in the bathroom. Encourage toddlers to decorate a certain area so they feel they have their own space.
- ★ Choose both short-term and long-term rewards like stickers or a field trip that you can look forward to.
- ★ Create a game out of training. Use their favorite board game and make it potty training specific. When they win, a reward is in order.
- ★ Take a special shopping trip to pick out the first pair of cloth underwear. Keep them as a reward for progress, like staying dry through the day.
- ★ Have a special potty song or CD to play while in the car or even in the bathroom to make training more fun.

